Well, the Lamborghini is going green,

and we don't mean the paint color.

The Italian luxury-car maker says

all of its new cars will be plug-in hybrids

by the end of 2024.

That means they will still have the feel and the sound of an internal-combustion engine

but can also operate under purely electric power at times.

So fear not, Lambo fans: they will still go fast and sound fast.
