

major figure

social justice

dean

civil-rights movement

cofound

the Southern Christian Leadership Conference

Martin Luther King Jr.

later

establish

foundation

justice

human rights

surround

A major figure in American social justice has died. Joseph Lowery was known as the “dean” of the civil-rights movement. He cofounded the Southern Christian Leadership Conference with Martin Luther King Jr. and later established a foundation for justice and human rights. Lowery died Friday surrounded by his daughters. He was 98 years old.

A major figure in American social justice has died.

Joseph Lowery was known as the “dean” of the civil-rights movement.

He cofounded the Southern Christian Leadership Conference with Martin Luther King Jr.

and later established a foundation for justice and human rights.

Lowery died Friday surrounded by his daughters.

He was 98 years old.