

Oxford

take a moment out

win

Nobel Peace Prize

advocate

girls' education

shoot

the Taliban

nominate A for B

activism

climate change

protest

Malala Yousafzai and Greta Thunberg took a moment out together at the University of Oxford. Yousafzai won a Nobel Peace Prize for advocating girls' education, after she was shot by the Taliban. She is now studying at Oxford. Thunberg was nominated for a Nobel for her activism on climate change. She's in the UK for a protest.

Malala Yousafzai and Greta Thunberg took a moment out together at the University of Oxford.

Yousafzai won a Nobel Peace Prize for advocating girls' education, after she was shot by the Taliban.

She is now studying at Oxford.

Thunberg was nominated for a Nobel for her activism on climate change.

She's in the UK for a protest.